Residents have the opportunity to attend public schools in the Snohomish School District, a district with approximately 9,700 students enrolled (FY 2010). In addition, students have the opportunity to attend tuition-free college or universities via the Washington Virtual School (a public, state-run virtual school) or private colleges and universities. Snohomish School District assists students with learning disabilities and other special needs. Eligibility for special education services can be determined by the student's parent, guardian, and a responsible school administrator or school counselor who ensures the student's rights are protected.
